Everyone Belongs Engagement Report

April 2025

What does it mean to belong?

A note from the Engagement Team

Every day, we engage with our residents and local communities, and through these experiences, we've seen first-hand how social connection is an essential human need – important to both our physical and mental health.

When people connect, they experience the powerful and enriching sense of belonging, defined as “one’s subjective sense of acceptance by in-group members”.

The Everyone Belongs Engagement Report reveals that 63% of City of Stirling residents feel a sense of belonging to their local community – an encouraging foundation, but also a reminder of the need for ongoing efforts to enhance social connection.

We embarked on a journey to get to the heart of what it means to belong because Locally-led Stirling aims to deepen connection at a local suburb level.

As part of the broader City Convos series, Everyone Belongs united engagement for several City-shaping projects under a single, holistic theme. These included the Access and Inclusion Plan 2025-2030, Public Health Plan 2026-2031, and the role of local bowling clubs as gathering places. This streamlined approach mitigated engagement fatigue to foster deeper conversations. Central to participation was the power of storytelling, where residents’ personal experiences captured the true spirit of our community.

Take Morland Smith, 87, for example – a grandfather of eight who, after developing a vision impairment later in life, finds belonging in twice-weekly runs on the footpaths of Churchlands, guided by his daughter. Or Alex Harris, 36, who feels so connected to the Inglewood Bowling and Sports Club that he travels half an hour from Wanneroo to be part of it. And then there’s Greg Carsten, 35, who began as a client at the Nollamara Day Club but found his true purpose as a volunteer, giving back to help others feel the belonging he once sought.

The Everyone Belongs engagement outcomes reflect these stories and other research into belonging, including Social Connection 101, a leading Australian evidence-based resource. This research highlights four essential elements for fostering social connection: foundations, spaces and places, activities, and people.

Through Everyone Belongs, residents expressed in their own words how their sense of belonging stems from participation in activities, events, clubs or groups (39%), strong neighbourhood or community connections (36%), and quality amenities for gathering (17%).

Social Connection 101 notes that people make new connections by literally 'bumping into' each other, reinforcing the Locally-led Stirling approach of creating bump-in spaces for people to forge deeper relationships. And while the Everyone Belongs Engagement Report celebrates many more ways our City fosters connection, it also highlights opportunities for growth.

Super-Belonging Sauce: Ingredients for strengthening social connection in the City of Stirling

1. Foundations

Safe, accessible and flexible:

- Improve the sense of safety, with 58% of residents reporting that they feel safe in their community at all times of the day and night
- Increase inclusivity and access for people with disability – 57% of residents already see this as a strength in their community, but sentiments drop for people with disability (47%)
- Offer a range of choices and flexibility for getting involved, with just half of residents (48%) part of a local community group or club

2. Spaces & Places

Optimising bumping spaces, open green spaces and community hubs:

- While 90% of residents value having a connected area of parks for living a healthy and active lifestyle, satisfaction drops to 76%
- 81% of residents emphasise the importance of having access to everything they need within a 15-minute walk, bike ride, or public transport journey from home, but just 66% believe this is achieved
- Enhance belonging at local bowling clubs, where just 50% of attendees feel they belong, and 34% of respondents are unaware of the clubs altogether

3. Activities

Including problem-solving, learning and synchronous activities:

- Encouragingly, 68% of residents have participated in an activity in the past year that's helped them feel connected to their community
- 38% of residents think cultural events and festivals should be prioritised to improve their sense of belonging, followed by community groups and clubs (36%), and accessible and inclusive public spaces (34%)
- Those who are aware of the City's bowling clubs but don't attend suggest that new community events (37%) and other activities/workshops (35%) could encourage their participation

4. People

Community connectors:

- Increase assistance for community connectors within diverse groups, with just 21% of respondents believing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people are well encouraged to participate in the community
- Similarly, only 29% of residents feel there's enough support for people with disability and young people aged 13 to 24 to get involved
- As one Inglewood resident wisely put it: "Asking them what would make them want to be involved is the best first step"

So, what's next? After diving into the Everyone Belongs Engagement Report, the recipe boils down to three options: reviewing what's already being done, making small tweaks, or going all in with a generous pour of Super-Belonging Sauce to design new programs and activities.

Because by listening and responding with a local focus, we can ensure everyone belongs, everywhere.

Everyone Belongs Overview

With an extremely diverse population, it is important that the City of Stirling supports and encourages residents to be part of their local communities, as outlined in Sustainable Stirling 2022-2032.

This vision inspired the journey to get to the heart of what it means to belong in the City of Stirling, inviting participation from every corner of the community from 10 February to 30 March 2025.

The insights gathered help to ensure everyone belongs everywhere, identifying the key drivers of belonging across wards and diverse groups, to inform the Access and Inclusion Plan 2025-2030, Public Health Plan 2026-2031, and the role of local bowling clubs as gathering places.

A story-driven Stirling approach involved capturing and sharing residents' inspiring stories of belonging throughout the campaign, fostering greater participation.

Opportunities for the community to get involved included Belonging Hub stalls at community markets, a simultaneous Bowlo Banter event at all 10 bowling clubs across the City, interactive in-person dot-voting, and a comprehensive online survey.

Everyone Belongs Outcomes Snapshot

Sense of Belonging

Six in 10 residents feel like they belong to their local community.

This increases to seven in 10 in Osborne, Doubleview and Coastal wards, however softens to five in 10 in Inglewood.

- Involvement in community activities, neighbourhood connections, and access to gathering spaces emerge as the greatest drivers of belonging, based on residents' open-ended responses.
- Events, community groups, and accessible and inclusive public spaces, are what residents want the City to prioritise to improve their sense of belonging.

Access and Inclusion

People with a disability (55%) report a lower sense of belonging compared to total residents (63%).

- Accessible and inclusive services, events, facilities, and public spaces are their main priorities for improving access and inclusion.
- Opportunities for meaningful involvement in the community is also rated highly.

Public Health

Feelings of belonging decrease for people with mental health conditions (40%) and chronic conditions (46%).

- Local recreational programs, events, and activities are the top public health priorities among all residents.
- Social connection is also highly valued for enhancing health and wellbeing.

Note: Snapshot is based on overall results. Results may differ by audience and demographic. See full report for details.
Pictured: Participant in Bowlo Banter engagement event at Osborne Park Bowling Club.

Local Bowls Clubs

Half of residents who visit their local bowls club feel a sense of belonging.

- Improving facilities is their top priority.

34% of respondents are unaware of any bowls clubs in the City

Almost half who are aware never attend, and 17% visit less than once a year.

- New community events, and other activities/workshops, are the top opportunities that may make them more likely to visit.

Sense of Belonging

Sense of Belonging: Foundations

63% of residents feel a sense of belonging to their local community, with 14% strongly agreeing

Belonging levels are highest in Osborne and Doubleview wards (70%) and lowest in Inglewood (48%) and Lawley (57%). The sense of belonging softens in the 18-34-year-old age demographic (55%), compared to 35-54 (68%) and 55+ (66%). There is little difference between males (65%) and females (62%).

Sense of Belonging: Spaces and Places

Liveability factors that enhance belonging are performing relatively well, but more can be done

Local businesses that provide for daily needs (Importance: 92%, Performance: 83%)

This liveability measure is most important to residents across the City, and also performs fairly well. Balga, Inglewood and Doubleview (81%) report slightly lower satisfaction.

Connected network of parks for a healthy and active lifestyle (Importance: 90%, Performance: 76%)

This measure presents a 14% gap between importance and performance, with Osborne (61%) and Inglewood (68%) residents experiencing the lowest satisfaction.

Access to essential services within a 15-minute journey (Importance: 81%, Performance: 66%)

There's a 15% gap between importance and performance, with Balga (61%) the weakest-performing ward for residents having access to everything they need within a 15-minute walk, bike ride, or public transport journey from home.

Pictured: The Belonging Hub at Summer X Salt Markets in Trigg - one of several held across the City - celebrating, inclusion, diversity and wellbeing. Participants were invited to complete the survey, add stickers to dot-vote posters, or jot down ideas on the Belonging Board. Featured stalls included Microenterprise People and the Djookanka Sisters.

Sense of Belonging: Activities

In the past year, 68% of residents have participated in activities that fostered connection

Doubleview (78%) and Lawley (73%) have the highest rate of residents engaging in activities that help them feel connected to their community, while there's a softening in Hamersley (60%) and Balga (59%). Participation in activities increases with age, with 74% of 55+ residents engaged in local activities in the past year, compared to 57% of 18-34-year-olds. Men (69%) and women (67%) report similar levels of involvement.

Sense of Belonging: Activities

Residents want the City to prioritise events and community groups to improve belonging

Cultural events and festivals (38%) – The most commonly selected priority for improving the sense of belonging, especially among younger residents (48% of 18–34-year-olds) and residents in Inglewood (42%) and Coastal (42%).

Community groups and clubs (36%) – More valued by 55+ residents (43%) and in Osborne (41%).

Accessible and inclusive public spaces (34%) – Especially a priority for Lawley (51%) and Doubleview (40%) residents.

Community engagement (31%) – Stronger support among 55+ residents (35%) and in Doubleview (35%).

Which of the following should be prioritised to improve the sense of belonging in your local community? | % residents

■ Balga ■ Coastal ■ Doubleview ■ Hamersley ■ Inglewood ■ Lawley ■ Osborne

Base: City of Stirling residents n=410, Balga n=45, Coastal n=89, Doubleview n=85, Hamersley n=53, Inglewood n=42, Lawley n=44, Osborne n=52

Q: Which of the following do you think should be prioritised to improve the sense of belonging in your local community?

Note: Residents could select up to three priorities.

Other community suggestions

"Social sports."

"Permanent volleyball facilities on the beach."

"Community markets where there are no fees."

"There are no inclusive playgrounds anywhere near me."

"Green cover, especially on verges along paths."

"Prioritise pedestrian paths."

"Partnership with schools to enhance community belonging."

"More free sports for kids and youth."

"Opportunities for older people to learn more about technology."

"Short outings for over 50s."

"Learning from community members who have hidden disabilities."

Sense of Belonging: People

Residents believe some groups could receive more encouragement to participate in the community

How well do you think the City encourages each group to actively participate in the community? | % well (7 to 10)

Base: City of Stirling residents n=410

Q: How well do you think that the City of Stirling encourages each of the following groups to actively participate in the community?

Note: This graph reflects responses of 7 to 10 on a 1 to 10 rating scale, with 1 being 'not at all well' and 10 being 'extremely well'

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people (21%)

are perceived as receiving the lowest encouragement to participate in the community, especially in Lawley (11%) and Inglewood (11%), however sentiments improve in Balga (38%).

Snapshot of comments

"I have not seen any encouragement or promotion towards indigenous people to participate in community events."

"Signage that respects history and culturally important places."

"I think they often don't feel welcome. Provide the right support for this group to run programs that cater for them."

"I don't think the City asks for advice from this group enough."

"More historic information about cultural sites."

"Increase opportunities for mentoring."

"Lack of community awareness."

"Not enough engagement and value placed on people with lived experience."

"Asking them what would make them want to be more involved is the best first step."

People with disability (29%)

Perceived encouragement to participate is highest in Balga (39%), and lowest in Lawley (14%).

Snapshot of comments

"More accessibility to beaches and playgrounds."

"Many streets lack safe footpaths."

"More ACROD parking in public places."

"Lack of sensory-friendly facilities."

"Inclusive all-ability playgrounds."

"Upgrade facilities to enable disability access."

Young people aged 13 to 24 (29%)

Perceptions of encouragement to participate especially drop in Inglewood (18%) and Lawley (19%).

Snapshot of comments

"This age group is hard to engage. Free music or underage events would be great."

"Workshops on getting a job and building experience."

"More safe spaces for teens to hang out and get support or guidance if they need to."

"Free surf group, soccer team, football team, program on how to be a leader at a young age."

Sense of Belonging: People

Snapshot of a story-driven Stirling approach

A story-driven Stirling approach involved capturing and sharing residents' inspiring stories of belonging in articles and videos that featured on social media, newsletters and the website, encouraging participation and linking to engagement opportunities including the survey.

Belonging Hubs buzzing at community markets

"I think it's a great initiative and what I'm impressed with is the way the community is getting involved and they want to show you how they feel about their home and their community," says JPN artist Jarven Wyatt said.

New outreach and drop-ins where young people belong

"My goal is to create a space where people feel comfortable opening up, sharing their struggles, and ultimately realising their full potential."

Community spirit shines at Bowlo Banter event

Hundreds of residents joined the Bowlo Banter event across Stirling, sharing ideas on how to potentially enhance their local bowling clubs and foster community belonging.

Access and Inclusion

Access and Inclusion

There are opportunities to enhance belonging for people with disability

55% of people with disability feel like they belong to their local community, a lower rate than all residents (63%). Carers (58%), and friends and family of people with disability (61%), also have slightly lower rates of feeling a sense of inclusion.

Belonging priorities for people with disability

For people with disability, the highest priority for improving their sense of belonging is community engagement that involves people in the decision making process (46%). In contrast, the wider community ranks this priority fourth (31%).

Other key priorities for fostering belonging among people with disability are accessible and inclusive public spaces (45%) and community groups and clubs (35%).

Other belonging insights for people with disability

Access and inclusion: 47% of people with disability believe their community is inclusive and accessible for people with disability, a decline from the 57% Citywide average.

Public health services: 40% of people with disability rate their area's public health services positively, lower than 54% of all residents.

Social connection: 50% of people with disability agree their community has opportunities for social connection, compared to 66% of all residents.

Access to services: 87% of people with disability place importance on having local businesses for daily needs, but only 73% agree their area provides them (lower than 83% Citywide). 72% of people with disability value access to services within a 15-minute journey, but only 52% agree their area meets this (differing from 66% Citywide).

Connected parks: While 81% of people with disability see parks as important, only 60% feel their area has a well-connected network, compared to 76% of all residents.

Encouragement to participate: 22% of residents with disability say people with lived experience feel very encouraged to participate in their area, while the wider community (29%) believes this to be higher.

Base: All residents n=410, People with disability n=34
Questions: Various
Note: Samples under n=45 provide an indication of sentiments but caution is advised when informing major decisions

Access and Inclusion

When it comes to access and inclusion, people with disability prioritise services and events (55%)

Access to buildings, facilities, and public spaces (49%) is their next top priority, followed by opportunities for meaningful involvement and participation in the community (46%). People with lived experience (44%) place much higher emphasis on community understanding of access and inclusion, compared to all residents (26%).

This is a snapshot of the community's comments about improving access and inclusion

Services and events

"Not enough ACROD parking, and there are multi-level spaces without lifts or maintained lifts."

"Free specialised bus rides for people with disabilities."

"Employ people with lived experience to provide consultancy on service delivery and event accessibility."

"Quiet spaces for people with sensory issues or anxiety. Community activities for people with disabilities who aren't senior citizens."

"Better advertising for accessible events, and holding events in accessible spaces."

Buildings, facilities

"More accessible toilets and change facilities."

"More ramps everywhere, and handrails."

"More ACROD parking bays, more natural/dimmable lighting, better ventilation."

"Special consideration of neurodiverse people's needs in public buildings and spaces."

"More tactile information/wayfinding."

"Several City-owned facilities, including libraries, museum, and community centres aren't accessible - no lift to second level, no automatic entry/exit doors, or no accessible toilet."

Access and Inclusion

Outdoor/public spaces

"No parking on footpaths."

"Replace textured walkways with flat, smooth paths that are easier on feet and wheels."

"Additional beach ramps and beach wheelchairs."

"Communication boards/sign language signs in playgrounds."

"Replace sandpits with rubber turf."

"Wheelchair inclusive playgrounds, mainly wheelchair swings."

Meaningful involvement

"More volunteers to help people take part in activities like hydrotherapy."

"More events specifically for people with disabilities. Consult with people with disabilities when planning."

"More accessible groups for people under 60."

"Personal invitation to registered disability families for a meet and greet."

"Having sports/activities that are appropriate or even targeted towards people with disabilities."

Community understanding

"More public campaigns on social media featuring people with lived experience."

"Educating people on parking and access paths."

"More regular workshops for community members to learn about access and inclusion."

"By understanding them yourselves. Telling their stories. Lead by example. Canvas state and federal government agencies. Ensure inclusion is the minimum."

"Provide free Auslan classes."

Employment opportunities

"More resources to find employment opportunities for people with disability."

"Stakeholder engagement to gear employment opportunities toward person's interests without red tape."

"Education program for employers to better understand how to support staff with disabilities."

"Advocate for people with disability to employers."

"Employ neurodiverse - very good, focused, repetitive tasks etc."

Access to information

"Reading sessions at my local library of events and notifications on set days."

"Provide more information by post or even text messages, as don't use computers."

"Better websites that are easier to use. Patient and well trained call centre staff."

"More information on ACROD parking locations."

"Advertising in local paper and shopping centres."

"Interpreters, multilingual signs, audio pamphlets."

Social participation

"There are no programs in rec centres for kids with disabilities."

"Market opportunities for Microenterprise People with disability."

"More social events for ASD teens."

"Intergenerational programs, seniors playgroup."

"Programs to help people with disability and seniors use technology."

"More inclusive sports - paralympic."

Note: These are some of the comments gathered through the survey and at community markets, shopping centres, and libraries.

Public Health

Public Health

People with mental health and chronic health conditions experience a reduced sense of belonging

40% of people with mental health conditions and 46% with chronic health conditions feel like they belong to their local community, much lower than all residents (63%).

Belonging priorities for people with mental health or chronic health conditions

Accessible and inclusive public spaces are a priority for people with chronic conditions (46%) and mental health conditions (37%) when it comes to improving their sense of belonging. Both groups (40%) also say priority should be given to community groups and clubs. These top priorities differ from the wider community's (38%) highest priority of cultural events and festivals.

Other belonging insights for people with mental health or chronic health conditions

Public health services: 35% of people with chronic conditions agree their local community has good public health services, much lower than all residents (54%).

Community safety: Feeling safe at all times is reduced (41% for people with mental health conditions and 46% for chronic conditions) compared to 58% of the wider community.

Social connection: 46% of people with mental health conditions and 49% with chronic conditions say their community has opportunities for social connection, lower than all residents (66%).

Base: All residents n=410, People with mental health conditions n=34, People with chronic conditions n=48
Questions: Various
Note: Samples under n=45 provide an indication of sentiments but caution is advised when informing major decisions

Access and inclusion: 41% of people with chronic conditions feel their community is inclusive and accessible for people with disability, falling behind the 57% Citywide average.

Connected parks: Despite its importance, 52% of people with mental health conditions and 60% with chronic conditions believe their area has a well-connected network of parks supporting an active lifestyle, a decline from 76% of all residents.

Access to services: 40% of people with mental health conditions and 46% with chronic conditions feel they have everything they need within a 15-minute walk, bike ride, or public transport journey, compared to 66% of the wider community.

When it comes to public health, priorities vary by audience

The wider community believes the top priorities to focus on for public health are recreational programs, events and activities (45%), followed by social connection (37%), then affordable healthy food options (32%). Unsurprisingly, people with mental health conditions place the most importance on access to mental health services (60%), and people with chronic conditions prioritise local health and wellbeing services (49%).

Appendix A: Belonging Comments by Ward

This is a snapshot of the community's comments about belonging, by ward

Balga

"It's peaceful and a safe clean area to live in. Good neighbours and nice parks/reserves."

Nollamara resident, female, 55-64

"Shop locally, read City of Stirling newsletters, walk in the parks, use the libraries often, go to farmers market, concerts, cultural activities."

Nollamara resident, female, 65-74

"I connect with my street neighbours, I feel happy to traverse the streets with safety and take public transport. I love interacting with the public as they interact with me. I appreciate the customer service attendance and security officers."

Balga resident, male, 65-74

"Because we share everything in common for example shopping/swimming pool/park."

Balga resident, male, 35-44

"Website very good, advertises lots of community events."

Mirrabooka resident, male, 55-64

"Our community is disgusting, dirty, roads not coping and nowhere for many people to park, antisocial behaviour and I can't help but feel that City of Stirling are only focused on the higher socio economic suburbs."

Nollamara resident, female, 65-74

"No local cafes or craft groups which I love and it's how I socialise. No money goes into building our local shops which are disheveled and full of beggars and crime."

Westminster resident, female, 45-54

"I'm not engaged in activities in my local community, nor am I meeting people and making friends from my local areas."

Balga resident, female, 35-44

Coastal

"I visit the Stirling Leisure Centre at Scarborough five days a week for fitness classes, getting to know fellow seniors in my community."

Scarborough resident, female, 65-74

"I use the amenities, I know my local coffee shop owners, I know my neighbours, I attend local events. I love Scarbra :)"

Scarborough resident, male, 35-44

"Friendly, engaging neighbours. Long term resident."

North Beach resident, female, 55-64

"I know the people on my street, and the people that work in the local cafe. We have things in common like we are dog owners and enjoy the nearby beach and bush."

Watermans Bay resident, female, 35-44

"Involved through bowls and swimming, past links with schools and other sports clubs."

Trigg resident, male, 65-74

"I have lived in the City of Stirling my whole life. I love the closeness to the city and beach and lifestyle activities that are close by."

Karrinyup resident, female, 45-54

"Not enough events organised and don't feel like I know what is around me. Need to have friends and neighbours who engage."

North Beach resident, female, 35-44

"I am not involved with organisations within the City. I don't have school age children. I am not a sports person. I just live here, not belong."

Karrinyup resident, male, 75+

"I'm not from here."

Scarborough resident, male, 25-34

Doubleview

"Being part of the local school community and a local community group."

Doubleview resident, male, 45-54

"There's lots to do such as community programs and everyone is very kind."

Doubleview resident, male, under 18

"I have good neighbours and we look out for one another. Also enjoy bowling fairly nearby at Osborne Park."

Innaloo resident, female, 75+

"I read about local activities and attend some events. I walk and shop locally. I am pleased to be involved in the waterwise program."

Churchlands resident, female, 65-74

"Because we are integrated with the local sports clubs for kids."

Wembley Downs resident, male, 35-44

"Love socialising in the local area, love going down to the lake with my kids, talk to other people. Nice friendly feel."

Woodlands resident, female, 35-44

"Always worked outside the local community. Don't belong to any community groups or sports clubs."

Innaloo resident, female, 65-74

"Because the place is looking increasingly dreadful - with dumped shopping trolleys and household goods left on verges (but never collected), plus the very dubious looking people wandering the streets."

Doubleview resident, female, 55-64

"I would like to make friends in my area but don't feel like there is a gathering place for people in my age range. Too young for the bowls club, not fit enough for most sports."

Innaloo resident, female, 35-44

Hamersley

"I read your newsletters so I am aware what is happening. I follow your Facebook page for the same reason."

Hamersley resident, female, 65-74

"We do most of our living and recreation in the suburb where we live."

Gwelup resident, male, 75+

"School connection, sport club connection, neighbours."

Carine resident, female, 45-54

"It provides me with my local shopping at several small centres as well as some larger ones. It has plenty of sporting clubs for both young and elderly, which assists myself in keeping fit and healthy."

Balcatta resident, male, 75+

"I volunteer for the City of Stirling, Osborne Community Hub and also join in City activities. I walk my dog in the local parks and meet others."

Balcatta resident, female, 75+

"Volunteer friends group, street parties, worked locally, children raised here, grew up not far away."

Karrinyup resident, female, 65-74

"I am a member of North Beach Lions and North Beach Bowling club and also follow local groups on Facebook."

Carine resident, female, 65-74

"Lack of regular events that interest me, so less chances to meet others."

Balcatta resident, male, 35-44

"There's no street lights at night, it's pitch black walking along streets, I feel like I'm in danger."

Balcatta resident, female, 18-24

"I don't do any of the activities."

Hamersley resident, female, 25-34

Appendix A: Belonging Comments by Ward

Inglewood

"Mahjong, canasta groups at Dianella library, Terry Tyzack Aquatic Centre four times a week."

Dianella resident, female, 65-74

"Sense of community at street/neighbourhood level. Have got to know people and places through support for local business."

Inglewood resident, male, 35-44

"We enjoy local facilities like parks, playgrounds, and other amenities."

Dianella resident, female, 35-44

"Strong arts community and Beaufort Street fosters social interaction."

Inglewood resident, male, 65-74

"I use the local sports ground with other locals."

Dianella resident, female, 65-74

"I have lived in area a long time, and both my children attended primary and high school here."

Inglewood resident, male, 55-64

"Not enough events nearby. Parks are in bad shape so we travel for better parks and local community feels disconnected."

Dianella resident, male, 25-34

"Good for seniors but not enough to do for young people."

Inglewood resident, female, 18-24

"There is no central Dianella group of shops, cafe strip, or pub that acts as a meeting place for the community. All community spaces are disjointed."

Dianella resident, female, 35-44

"Not very aware of happenings in the local community."

Dianella resident, male, 35-44

"Little community engagement."

Dianella resident, male, 65-74

Lawley

"A very safe, respectful, friendly and welcoming community often connected by visiting the local park."

Mount Lawley resident, female, 55-64

"Friendly neighbours and my local bowls is a friendly place to visit."

Yokine resident, male, 55-64

"I am involved in a lot of sporting clubs like bowls club, baseball club and football."

Dianella resident, male, 65-74

"I participate in art, community, and exercise activities. Beaufort Street cafe staff recognise me and say hi."

Mount Lawley resident, female, 45-54

"Neighbours, friends living close by, parks and walking the Yokine reserve."

Coolbinia resident, female, 65-74

"We like to visit local areas like parks and libraries and the pool in our local area."

Yokine resident, female, 35-44

"I have lived in the area for 64 years and have been involved with local sporting groups, also on their committees."

Nollamara resident, female, 55-64

"I did not grow up in the area or have my children attend school here. We need more small community centres suitable for aerobics or yoga etc."

Yokine resident, female, 65-74

"High level of turnover of residents. Many older people I knew died or moved away and the new people do not connect or seem to care."

Yokine resident, female, 55-65

"From overseas."

Mount Lawley resident, male, 25-34

Osborne

"I know and help the people on my street, we are involved in the local school and we are regular users of our local library."

Osborne Park resident, female, 35-44

"Stirling Farmers Markets down the road. Two parks within 10 min walking distance and multiple retail and food offerings within five min walking distance."

Stirling resident, male, 25-34

"I enjoy the parks, cafe/shopping centres, library that CoS has to offer."

Joondanna resident, female, 45-54

"We have lived here for 40 years. We are known by name to local shopkeepers and neighbours."

Tuart Hill resident, female, 65-74

"I feel safe, my neighbours and people around me in the community are all good and decent people. We all have something different about us which we share as a our common bond."

Glendalough resident, female, 35-44

"Council is trying to develop and maintain facilities continuously."

Wembley resident, male, 35-44

"I socialise easily with people while walking the dogs."

Balcatta resident, female, 18-24

"I have attended Prime Movers and Crafternoons at the Osborne Park Community Hub."

Osborne Park resident, female, 75+

"I was living with drug dealers behind me for seven years, and the Council did nothing to help, brushing it off."

Joondanna resident, female, 45-54

"Stirling doesn't have a bus to take us out. Not interested in going out alone."

Stirling resident, female, 65-74
